UNDERLAY

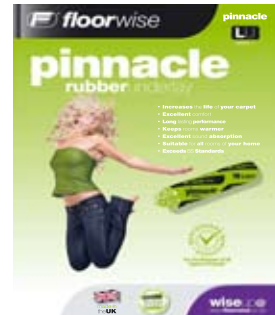

Choosing an appropriate underlay for your new carpet is as important a decision as selecting your carpet! The correct underlay is essential to the carpets performance and a good quality underlay fit for purpose will help prolong it's life. Underlay comes in lots of different thicknesses, weights and densities and selecting an underlay from the Floorwise range of high performance underlay's will not only guarantee to deliver on all of the above points but offer great value for money too. Here are a few options for you to consider -

Floorwise Foam Underlays are made from recycled post-industrial foam which is compressed under pressure to make a denser higher performing underlay. incorporating a non-woven fleece to aid stability, like Floorwise Maxi and Floorwise Supreme Floorwise rubber underlays are formed to deliver comfort through pockets of air, with increased durability based on the density and weight of the rubber compound. Floorwise Pinnacle and Floorwise Comfort are heavy density underlays that will help increase the life of your carpet offering excellent comfort and warmth year after year.

Maintenance

This carpet is made from anti-soil yarn and will remain clean with minimum maintenance. To preserve appearance retention, the material should be vacuumed on a regular basis and spillages and surface stains should be removed as soon as possible with an appropriate cleaner. To protect from outside soiling and moisture a suitable barrier matting system should be used.

Shading/Pile Reversal

As with all textile floor coverings shading effects due to movement of the pile may effect the appearance of the material.

Pressure damage and repeated walking over the same area may result in a localized change in pile orientation causing parts of the carpet to appear lighter or darker. These are referred to in the trade as shading and tracking. Pile reversal; the pile in areas becoming permanently distorted for no specific reason may occur. These phenomena are not considered as a manufacturing fault and do not affect the durability of the floor covering.
